DEER BATTERS OUT LIFE IN DASH AGAINST FENCE

Canton, Pa., Oct. 15.—A doe deer which had wandered from the woods, east of Grover, killed itself by dashing against a heavy wire fence, around a farmer's field near here, yesterday morning. The deer appeared on the farm owned by B. C. Winters, where it was discovered in the midst of a herd of cattle.

The animal had evidently been chased out of the woods by dogs and was in an exhausted condition. When the superintendent tried to rescue it from among the cows, which he feared might squeeze it to death, the animal ran against the wire fence with such force that it battered itself to death.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no loss of time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 510 Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, Va. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—Adv.

MRS. BROWN AN EXPERT ON MUTILATED MONEY

Has Pieced Together Bad Currency for Thirty-five Years.

One of the interesting figures in Washington governmental life is Mrs. A. E. Brown, the world's greatest expert in handling mutilated money. For more than thirty-five years this placid-faced, gray-haired woman has been in charge of one of Uncle Sam's most important departments, says the American Magazine.

Mrs. Brown was appointed for service under Gen. Grant in 1875 and began counting fractional currency. When the department of mutilated money became a separate department, she was made its chief and has held the position since.

"The method of determining just what part of the money remains is most interesting. Each mutilated bill is carefully pasted on a backing of paper the size of the complete bill. A piece of glass the exact size of the bill is divided into forty squares.

"When the glass is placed over the bill, if Mrs. Brown or her helpers find that the remains of the bill fill twenty-four of the squares, or three-fifths of them, she recommends that the bill be redeemed at face value. If more than two-fifths and less than three-fifths, half value will be given. Any part less than two-fifths is not redeemable, unless proof is brought in showing that the rest was destroyed.

"Burned money is the hardest to work on. Mrs. Brown and her experts agree, with the possible exception of money that has been gnawed by mice."

"I am a plain, modest woman," asserts Mrs. Brown, "and I have succeeded because those under whom I have worked and those with whom I have associated have been uniformly kind and have given me all needed encouragement.

"With our glasses and with the discrimination that comes from experience, we were able to save the larger part of the money supposed to be lost. Thousands of dollars were restored to needy people in this way. It was a source of great joy to them, and of satisfaction to us.

"It has taken patient endeavor and great care; but, after all, isn't that characteristic of women and their work in all walks of life?" Mrs. Brown asks. "I am a woman without question is one of the most remarkable, unique, and useful characters in the employ of the great American government."

HOLY NAME SOCIETY MARCHES IN REVIEW

returned from a tour of Europe, delivered an address on "Respect for Authority," and urged upon the members of the Holy Name to accept the theme as their motto. Benediction was celebrated by Right Rev. Bishop Corrigan, following which the parade disbanded.

Practically every Washington parish was represented in the parade, the contingents carrying banners bearing sacred inscriptions, and waving American flags and Holy Name pennants. "O God, We Praise Thy Name," "My Maryland," were the air sung by the paraders as they marched. There were no bands in the parade, owing to a Baltimore law prohibiting them.

A large portion of Baltimore's population turned out to review the parade, and windows along the line of march were filled with spectators. Many visitors from the National Capital were among the on-lookers.

The Washington delegation, seven thousand strong, was headed by John Hadley Doyle, president of the Capital's society. A staff of two hundred prominent Washington Catholics drove attire, acted as his escort. The Washington delegation held the place of honor at the head of the procession.

The four Washington monsignors, the Rev. J. J. McGeehan, Rev. Leo J. O'Brien, and the Rev. William T. Russell, acted as sponsors for the local delegation. The Third Sunday Brigade, of St. Aloysius' Parish, bearing its individual banners and under the leadership of the Rev. J. J. Cunningham, was fully a thousand strong, and Thomas McNamee, acted as its chief marshal.

Other pastors who led their parish contingents were the Rev. M. J. Riordan, of the Immaculate Conception church; Rev. Eugene McDonald, S. J., of Holy Trinity; Rev. J. R. Mesinger, of St. Dominic's; Rev. John R. Roth, of St. Mary's; Rev. Eugene Hannan, of St. Martin's; Rev. W. A. Cahill, of St. Joseph's; Rev. P. C. Gavan, of Sacred Heart; Rev. John Weidley, of St. Peter's, and Rev. P. J. O'Connell, of St. Vincent de Paul parish.

Following the disbanding of the procession most of the Washingtonians made their way back to the Capital City on early trains. President Smith, of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Union of the society, giving him jurisdiction over Baltimore, Washington and neighboring cities, was grand marshal of the parade. Marshal Robert D. McNamee and other Baltimore municipal authorities showed the marchers every courtesy and the program of the parade was carried out with dispatch.

Each member of the Washington delegation wore a red carnation in his buttonhole as he left Union Station. The flowers were the Cardinal's shade of red. As the delegation passed the reviewing stand where the Cardinal was seated, each carnation was deposited in a huge bouquet there.

ROBS TO REGAIN OLD HOME IN SING SING

New York, Oct. 15.—One day about six months ago Henry Heller shook hands with Thayer Osborne and walked out of Sing Sing. Seventy years, half of them spent in prison, lay behind him.

"You'll never see me here again, warden, unless I come as a visitor," he had said. "Old as I am, I'm going out to make good."

Last night, though, Heller slept in a cell again, held to the grand jury with-out bail on a charge of burglary.

"Sing Sing will be a better home than I've been able to find outside," said Heller, when arrested in the Bedford Avenue Court. "I wanted to turn square, but I was too old. Nobody had a job for me and I had to steal. It meant a meal, whether I got away with it or not."

DOG IN A HOSPITAL.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 15.—A little stray terrier fell under a street car. One hind leg was broken, and after the quick work and three-legged scurry of the first night, the little dog dragged itself, sad-eyed and trembling, down past the General Hospital.

A nurse, touched at the sight, brought it in. An interne joked good-humoredly at the nurse's pity, but he set the leg in splints. The little terrier was fed and petted, until now his broken leg is healed and nearly as good as ever.

But the little stray terrier has made the hospital his home. He refuses to leave.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME WEST OF ALEXANDRIA

"Burgundy," George Ziler's Residence, Burns—Damage May Total $20,000.

THE HERALD BUREAU, R. E. Knight & Son, 627 1/2 King Street.

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 15.—Fire which started shortly before 8 o'clock tonight completely destroyed the three-story frame dwelling house known as "Burgundy," two and a half miles west of this city, owned and occupied by George E. Ziler.

Most of the effects were saved, but nothing remains of the home but a smouldering pile of ashes.

The loss will be between $15,000 and $20,000. It is thought, partially covered by insurance. A defective fuse is thought to have been responsible for the blaze.

"Burgundy" was well known to residents of this section. During the progress of the fire the firemen removed the telephone from the house transferring it to a big oak tree nearby and afterward the firemen answered calls made to the place as the blaze could plainly be seen in this city.

A large delegation of members of the local branch of the Holy Name Society this afternoon participated in the parade of that organization in Baltimore. The local delegation was marshaled by P. A. Kersey and was accompanied by Rev. Michael Daly, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church.

"Suffrage Evening" will be observed Wednesday at the Masonic bazaar at Armory Hall. The speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Thompson W. Burch of Washington. Mrs. Burch is prominent in national suffrage work, being the organizer of the recent suffrage rally at Atlantic City. An interesting suffrage entertainment is promised by the committee.

Extensive improvements are being made to the interior of the Young Men's Sodality Lyceum Hall on Duke street, between Royal and Fairfax streets. This organization is making plans to form a dramatic club, which will present several plays during the winter months.

A meeting for men will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Richmond Theater, when preliminary plans looking to the organization of a Young Men's Christian Association in this city will be discussed.

At a number of the Protestant churches in the city today many new members were received, this being due to the recent evangelistic services held here by Gypsy Smith, Jr.

The Bible class of Christ P. E. Church, of which Judge L. C. Harley is pastor, starts today with a membership of twenty-seven.
